Young Reagan dances over typewriter keys

Ron Reagan

In his first feature magazine article since switching from ballet to writing, President Reagan's son Ron takes on a familiar subject — actor Jimmy Stewart.

"Since my early childhood, Stewart has inhabited the periph ery of my world, never exactly Uncle Jimmy, but one of those old family friends I saw occasionally during the holidays and whose name crops up now and again at the dinner table," young Reagan writes in a new magazine, The Movies, out June 20.

"I'm nervously aware of being trapped in an awkward limbo between an old acquaintance and invading journalist."

In the interview, Stewart talked about Henry Fonda, with whom he constructed rubber-band-powered airplanes, and director Frank Capra, who got Stewart to make "It's a Wonderful Life" simply because he was the first to approach the actor after he returned home from World War II.

Stewart said Dustin Hoffman is "sort of my favorite" among the current actors: "I don't know how you could do better than him."

At the end of the interview, Reagan got something most interviewers do not: a ride home from the interviewee. "My sister will be apoplectic with envy," he wrote, not specifying which of his two sisters.

Hatcher And Washington To Address 43rd Annual NNPA Convention

GARY, INDIANA - As the opening date of the 43rd Annual Convention of the National Newspaper Publishers Association approaches, convention planners today announced that two of the nation's most accomplished Mayors will address the delegation during the four (4) day confab. Mayor Harold Washington of Chicago, Illinois, and Mayor Richard Gordon Hatcher of Gary, Indiana will each deliver keynote addresses on the consecutive days of June 16-17, 1983, to more than 300 black newspaper publishers from throughout the United States.

Elected on April 12, 1983, Mayor Washington became the first Black ever elected to the City of Chicago's highest office. His widely-publicized campaign for the Mayoral seat follow ed a career of public service to his hometown Chicago, having served as an Illinois Congress man, State Senator, and State Representative.

As a United State Congressman, it was Mayor Washington who served as House floor leader for the extension of the Voting Rights Act, and the defeat of President Reagan's MX Missile Plan. Mayor Washington's consider able list of Legislative accomplishments have been recognized by the Illinois State AFL-CIO, independent voters of Illinois, Federation of Independent Colleges, and the Cook County Bar Association.

HAVE YOU BELIEVED OUR REPORT?
Series #1 Part 13

Isaiah 53rd chapter 1st & 2nd verses. Who hath believed our report and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

For he shall grow up before him as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground: He hath no form nor comeliness; and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.

God ANSWER PRAYER

2nd Chronicles chapter 7,verse 14.

If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray and seek my face,and turn from their wicked ways; then will I here from heaven, and will forgive their sin and will heal their land.

1st King chapter 3, verses 9,10,&11.

Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may disearn between good and bad: for who is able to judge this thy so great a people?

And the speech please the Lord that Solomon had asked this thing.

And God said unto him, because thou hast asked this thing, and hast not asked riches for thyself, nor hast asked the life of thine enemies; but hast asked for thyself understanding to discern judgment.

1 CORINTHIANS CHAPTER 13,14

Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinking cymbal.

And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing.

And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing.

Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up,

Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil;

Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth;

Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away.

For we know in part, and we prophesy in part.

But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away.

When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things.

For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known.

And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three;but the greatest of these is charity.

14 Follow after charity, and desire spiritual gifts, but rather that ye may prophesy.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

Naomi Bettye Clanton Retires

Ninety people showed up at Bettye Clanton's retirement party last week. That was a good way to go for the vibrant, five-foot short "hostess of the mostest" who as Fort Lewis Recreation Center program director has been the life of the party for thousands.

Mrs. C. got her first club hostess job at Fort Knox, Ky., in 1943, and has seldom been far from military show biz ever since. So much that she says her only regret is, "I wish I had to do it all over again, because I could do it better."

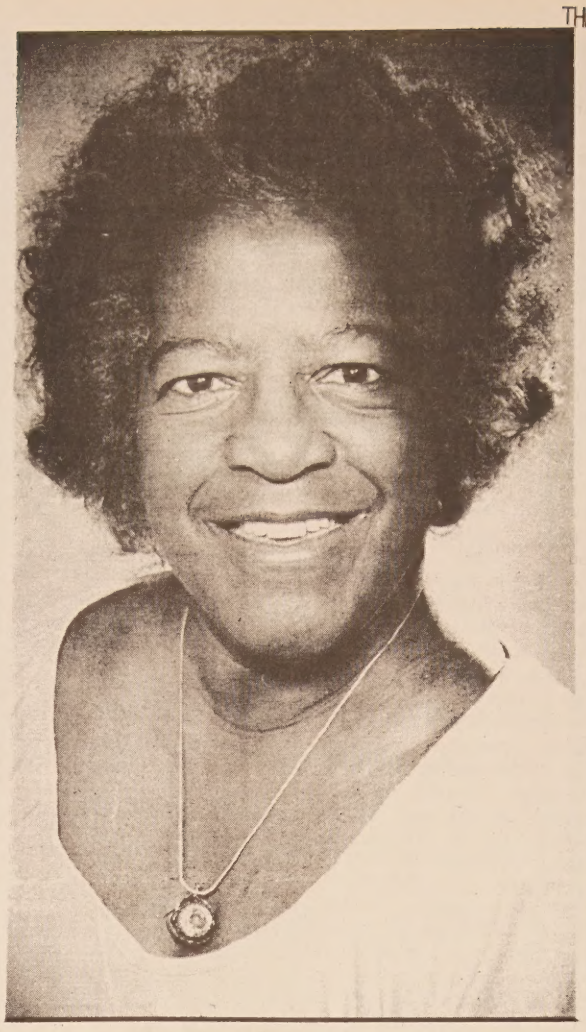
Clanton earned her degree in education at Tuskegee Institute, Ala., where one of her professors was George Washington Carver. "I sometimes went for walks with him," she said. She received a master's degree at Iowa University, and applied for a teaching job in her hometown.

While at Knox she met Charles C. Clanton, Jr., and they were married. But married women weren't allowed to work as club hostesses, so for the record she kept her maiden name--Barton--and her job.

Both at Knox and Fort Lewis she encouraged young entertainers to develop their talents doing club shows. One of her protegees at Knox was jazz saxophonist, the late Cannonball Adderley. Years later, she met him when he was drawing $2,500 a week. "He introduced me as the lady who paid him 25 cents an hour to perform," she said. "His friends couldn't believe it, but it was true.

The four young black soldiers who became "The Checkmates" were invited by Clanton to tune up their muscial style on Fort Lewis service club stages back in the early 1960's. Retirement doesn't mean Clanton is just going to sit around and "watch the strawberries grow," although her husband, who retired as a first sergeant in 1973, is a master gardener who raises them "big as golf balls."

And she doesn't intend to abandon her interest in Fort Lewis recreation programs. "There's always a need for an extra volunteer, you know," she explained.



Her Name is Naomi Bettye Clanton, but to most folks around the Nelson Recreation Center, she's usually just "Mrs. C"

Baha'i Community Of Tacoma

TACOMA, WA.--Behle Alley will be the guest speaker at the Friday night fireside talk on June 24 presented by the Baha'i Faith. The fireside will be at 1732 So. 41st Street in Tacoma. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. The title of the talk will be "The Renewal of Civilization."

According to the Baha'i beliefs, the progressive disintegration, in this century, of all that was considered stable in the old order of the world, has evoked doubts and fears in every heart. We are apprehensive of the future and question the purpose of life, the value of striving, the good of civilization. Baha'is believe that today is another spiritual spring time, when in fulfilment of the ancient promises, the spiritual sun has again risen to guide mankind in his hour of darkness, to shed the light of truth upon the difficult problems of the age, and to evoke in human hearts that faith and radiant love which are the first requirements for reconstruction. It is concerned with the spirit of man, and shows how it, like all other living things, grows according to its nature, from season to season, through the influence of the returning sun. The sun of the human spirit is the Word of God, revealed in every age by the Founders of the great religions.

The Baha'is of Tacoma warmly invite anyone interested in attending to their Friday night fireside talk. For more information or directions please call the Baha'i Faith at 474-8029.

National Institute Of Education Public Meetting

The National Institute of Educaton (NIE) is planning the competition for a nationwide network of Regional Education Laboratories and Research and Development Centers (R&D) to be held during 1984.

To prepare for this competition NIE will hold a PUBIC MEETING on June 22, 1983 in Room 514, New Federal Building, 915 Second Avenue, Seatlle, Washington. This is one of eleven public meetings to be held across the country to provide interested groups or individuals an opportunity to advise NIE on their educational needs and priorities and the types of educational research that would be most responsive to those needs.

NIE is also interested in gathering the education communities views regarding the most appropriate institutional characteristics for the Laboratories and Centers.

Black Mayors Support NAACP'S New Thrust Of Self Help

At its ninth annual convention in New Orleans, the National Conference of Black Mayors passed a resolution supporting the NAACP's new thrust of "SELF HELP."

Jonny Ford, Mayor of Tuskegee, Alabama and President of the National Conference of Black Mayors said that the 225 Black Mayors, recalling its convention theme, "Municipal governments Stimulating the Black Economy, the U.S. and the World," readily passed a resolution recognizing that the NAACP has been in the forefront of the struggle for civil rights and social justice."

*The resolution went on to say that the majority of Black elected officials owe their existence to passage of the 1965 Voting Rights Act and its subsequent extensions;

*That the fight for voting rights legislation led by the NAACP;

*That the NAACP's new thrust is "SELF HELP" in light of the changing political scene and cut-backs in social programs;

*That since other social agencies have benefited from charitable check-offs historically; and the fact

*That NAACP conducts such community programs as Voter Education, and Registration, Housing, Education, Legal Redress, etc.; and

*That these programs can be supported by payroll deductions from its citizens at the Naitonal, State and local government; Black Mayors support NAACP's new thrust of Self Help.

The Mayors resolved that they go on record as supporting a direct check-off system for payroll deduction from State and local employees. The Mayors went on to resolve that this effort be coordinated with the National NAACP office to assure that this process is implemented at the local level in every city where that are Black elected officials.

Ms. Yvonne Price of the NAACP national staff represented the Association at the Black Mayors Convention.

TO BE EQUAL

When the President fired half the members of the U.S. Civil Rights Commision, he replaced them with people strongly opposed to affirmative action programs. Because that issue is so important to minority progress, the Commission's ability to act as the nation's civil rights conscience may be compromised.

Whatever the politics of the appointments process, the firings are being seen as another indication that the campaign against affirmative action is moving into high gear.

The Assistant Attorney General, William Bradford Reynolds, recently made a highly publicized speech again attacking affirmative action as "morally wrong." He said group remedies for discrimination will be opposed, and that the Administation supports, "racial neutrality and colorblindness."

The speech unleashed a firestorm of protest, and for good reason. The Administration's position is untenable. Refusing to follow remedies for group-based discrimination amounts to perpetuating discriminatory effects.

Individuals blacks not discriminated against because of their individual attributes, but because of their group status as blacks.

This has been recognized in countless court decisions requiring that institutions remedy past discrimination by future hiring and promotion goals that increase black representations

Sure, individuals who suffer discrimination should have personal redress where possible. But some of those cases take so long to wend their way through the courts that the individuals who were wronged either cannot be found or are otherwise employed and no longer in a position to benefit directly from court-imposed remedies.

And even if they were, discrimination cannot be countered on a case by case basis. It is systemic, and that means systems that discriminate have to be changed.

The obvious way to change systems is through adoption of affirmative action plans that set numerical goals and timetables for implementation. Not only are such plans fair, but they are planning tools that government agencies, businesses, and schools are familiar with. All institutions have plans for finances or employment that utilize numbers and time tables.

If such procedures make sense to measure cash flow and production goals, why should they be less worthy to use to measure inclusion of underrepresented minorities?

For a Justice Department officials to say that the Department's policies will be racially neutral is to ignore the fact that our society is not racially neutral. Nor is it colorblind.

The Justice Department is supposed to deal with facts, not dreams. The fact is the racial discrimination still lives in many quarters, and even where it has lessened, the effects of past discrimination are still powerful.

Until that changes pietics about "racial neutrality" and "colorblindness" are just empty words to cover the brutal reality of racism and to perpetuate it. With the help of affirmative action programs we may someday reach the point where race-based remedies are no longer needed and can then revert to official neutrality. But not until then--and it won't happen without active affirmative action programs now.

Beyond the pros and cons of affirmative action is the issue of the kind of message the Administration is sending by rolling out the artillery to pound away at affirmative action.

It discourages those businesses and schools that are trying to redress the errors of the past; it encourages racist die-hards who look for excuses to refuse to comply with the laws,

Walter E. Fauntroy

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Congressmen James J. FLoria (D 1st-N.Y.) and Walter E. Fauntroy (D-D.C.) today released a General Accounting Office (GAO) study they said shows a "disturbing patern" of hazardous waste landfills being located in poor black communities.

"This study confims our suspicion that those who are both poor and black are being force more than others to live with the potential health risks posed by hazardous waste landfills," Fauntroy and Florio, who had requested the study, said in a joint statement.

"This is further important evidence that Congress must approve strong legislation now pending that would make the land disposal of hazardous waste inappropriate," the congress men said of Florio's amendments to the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) that have been approved by the House Energy and Commerce Committee.

"No one--black or white, poor or affluent--should be force to live near a hazardous waste landfill," Fauntroy and Florio said. "There is no such thing as a 'safe' hazardous waste landfill."
